11. In light of unforeseen circumstances, the Department was unable to organize a formal farewell programme for the graduating batch. However, in response to students’ requests, the department approved a symbolic distribution of graduation caps and memory posters as a gesture to acknowledge the culmination of their academic journey.

Earlier, on 24 May 2025, graduation caps along with ten memory posters were distributed to students residing outside Delhi who were leaving early from hostels and PG accommodations. The remaining fourth-year students received their caps and posters on 6 June 2025, between 12:30 PM and 1:30 PM, at the departmental venue.

It was clearly communicated that the activity was not a farewell event, but a simple distribution marking the students’ final working and examination day. Students were instructed to collect their individually packed caps and exit the premises immediately, strictly adhering to institutional guidelines. Group photographs, music, celebrations, or any activity that could disrupt ongoing examinations were prohibited, and students were expected to maintain silence, discipline, and decorum.

The cap and poster distribution was conducted at the Student Activity Centre (SAC) in the presence of faculty members and in full compliance with institutional norms. The initiative served as a meaningful yet dignified acknowledgment of the graduating batch, balancing emotional significance with academic discipline and campus propriety.

Set in 1947, K. A. Abbas's Story "SARDAARJI" resounded in our region as a wake up call for the name of hatred and communalism. Hailed as one of the finest examples of Partition Literature; this Humanistic Masterpiece unearths a tender sapling of Kindness and Brotherhood, within the Maelstrom of Madness and Mayhem that had ensnared the nation. 77 years later, Abbas Sahib sardarji remains relevant and urgent, as today our biases and prejudices are amplified by Social Media Echo Chambers: Gods are 'Us', Demons are 'Them'!

Faculty Organiser for this event : Ms. Geetanjali Yadav with coordination Mr. Lokesh Jain.
