We also briefly cover the topic of "how homosexual men are affected by patriarchy". The empirical data provided is through the methodology of interviews and survey. The results emphasize the need to redefine masculinity to allow emotional expression and mutual love, advocating for inclusive conversations between men and women to dismantle patriarchal structures.

In India, women's participation in politics and rural development has been receiving increasing attention and importance. Rajasthan is known for its patriarchal social norms and traditional gender roles. Despite constitutional and state-level efforts to increase women's representation, women's leadership, effective and active participation in rural politics remains limited and many women are unable to fully engage in political processes and decision-making. By examining the factors that influence women's participation in rural politics in Rajasthan, this study seeks to identify the complex interplay of social, cultural, economic, and political factors that shape women's participation in local governance structures. The research involved a combination of primary and secondary sources, and also a comparative analysis. We conducted eight literature reviews. From these literature reviews, we found that issues like representation in politics where women are dominated by their male relatives, patriarchy, illiteracy, and other social and cultural barriers further limit women's independence. However, most studies have focused only on representation in high-ranking political offices, and few studies have delved deep into the specific challenges women face in Rajasthan's unique socio-political environment. Therefore, there is a need to explore the specific challenges related to caste, gender norms, and economic barriers in Rajasthan's local government structure. Fieldwork was conducted for this study in Village Panchayat, Jhunjhunu District, Rajasthan. The interviews highlight the challenges rural women face in participating in local political organizations. Patriarchal norms and male influence often limit their decision-making roles, with many of the decisions of female village chiefs being made by their husbands. But with education

After nearly thirty years of deliberation, the Indian Parliament, through 128th Constitutional Amendment, passed a landmark bill, named as the 'Nari Shakti Vandana Adhiniyam' (Women's Reservation Bill) on 19th September, mandating a 33% (one-third) reservation of seats for women in Lok Sabha and State Legislative Assemblies, including those reserved for SCs and STs. This historic legislation would not only enhance women's political representation in the world's largest democracy but also signify a broader promise of empowering women, positively influencing the aspirations of the young women. The reservation will be effective after the publication of the census conducted following the Act's commencement and endures for a 15-year period, with potential extension determined by parliamentary action. HYPOTHESIS: The Women's Reservation Act, 2023 has a positive impact on the aspirations of young women. RATIONALE: The Women's Reservation Act, 2023, has been passed in response to the challenges to women's participation in politics. The need for affirmative action to improve the status of women in Indian society is one of the main arguments in favour of the bill. For most women, the intertwined constraints of gender, class, caste, violence, financial challenges, low literacy rates and workforce participation, mobility restrictions and other discriminations, exacerbated by the pervasive influence of patriarchy, create intricate challenges to their full

TO WHOMSOEVER IT MAY CONCERN

Feminism In India (FII) is an award-winning digital intersectional feminist media platform to learn, educate and develop a feminist sensibility among the youth in India. FII amplifies the voices of women and marginalized communities using tools of art, media, culture, technology and community.

This is to certify that Syeda Shua Zaidi underwent a two-month long online internship program at FII from 13th September 2024 - 13th November 2024 and successfully executed the tasks assigned to her.

During this time, she was involved in writing various kinds of online articles and published 15 articles for FII. She brought in strong creative skills to her work and the insights gained at FII should aid her in pursuing a career in her chosen field.

We were satisfied with her performance and wish her the very best in her future endeavours.

Kirti Rajput,

Subject: Offer of Internship - Event Management and Marketing

We are pleased to offer you an internship opportunity with EduAce Services Pvt. Ltd. in the role of Event Management and Marketing Intern. This internship is scheduled to commence on September 27, 2024, and will continue for 1 month, ending on October 27, 2024.

During this internship, you will have the opportunity to gain valuable hands-on experience in event planning, coordination, and marketing strategies. Your responsibilities will include but are not limited to:

1. Assisting in the planning and execution of events, including logistics, vendor coordination, and attendee management.
2. Supporting marketing campaigns for events through social media, email marketing, and other promotional activities.
3. Conducting market research and analysis to identify trends and opportunities for event improvement.
4. Collaborating with cross-functional teams to ensure seamless event experiences for participants and stakeholders.
5. Proper reporting of work in excel format daily.
6. Copy correction and sharing of results along with data entry in format shared by the company in the stipulated time.

You will be reporting directly to Dhruv Batra, Project Lead, QUEST 2024, who will provide guidance and mentorship throughout your internship. Your compensation for this internship will be Rs. 5000 per month along with any expenses (printing etc) you bear for the company which will be reimbursed by the end of the month. On prior approval from the National Project Head Ms. Pooja Singh for QUEST 2024. Your compensation is subject to increment based on your performance.

Please confirm your acceptance of this internship offer by signing and returning a copy of this
